Good Advice

Dear Annie

Giving thanks and feeling grateful

Dear Readers:
As we prepare our tables and tummies for tomorrow's Thanksgiving celebration, I find myself reflecting on the countless things I am grateful for. From good health to loving friends and family to our wonderful community of readers and letter writers, there are so many things, big and small, to appreciate.
Here are some of my favorite quotes about gratitude.
"When it comes to life the critical thing is whether you take things for granted or take them with gratitude." -- G.K. Chesterton

ANNIE LANE

"When you arise in the morning give thanks for the food and for the joy of living. If you see no reason for giving thanks, the fault lies only in yourself." -- Tecumseh
"It's a funny thing about life, once you begin to take note of the things you are grateful for, you begin to lose sight of the things that you lack." -- Germany Kent

"When I started counting my blessings, my whole life turned around." -- Willie Nelson
"He is a wise man who does not grieve for the things which he has not, but rejoices for those which he has." -- Epictetus
"Let us be grateful to the people who make us happy; they are the charming gardeners who make our souls blossom." -- Marcel Proust
"Cultivate the habit of being grateful for every good thing that comes to you, and to give thanks continuously. And because all things have contributed to your advancement, you should include all things in your gratitude." -- Ralph Waldo Emerson

"The unthankful heart discovers no mercies; but the thankful heart will find, in every hour, some heavenly blessings." -- Henry Ward Beecher
"What separates privilege from entitlement is gratitude." -- Brene Brown
"Gratitude is a powerful catalyst for happiness. It's the spark that lights a fire of joy in your soul." -- Amy Collette

Hints from Heloise

Salted or unsalted?

Dear Heloise: My husband and I are having a debate over which is better to use: unsalted butter or salted butter. I like to buy unsalted butter and keep it in a butter dish I got in England where you can put the butter in and fill the dish with water, then place the cover over the butter and water. No need to refrigerate it this way. My husband said we should be using salted butter, and he believes we should always place it in the refrigerator. What do you say? -- Cathy B., Lima, Ohio

HELOISE

1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/4 teaspoon celery seed
1/8 to 1/4 teaspoon ground red pepper
1/8 teaspoon onion powder
1/8 teaspoon garlic powder
1/8 teaspoon ground cloves
Trim off excess fat and rub meat with Worcestershire sauce. Combine the parsley, salt, pepper, celery seed, red pepper, onion powder, garlic powder and ground cloves. Then, sprinkle this mixture over the meat and rub in. Cover roast and let stand at room temperature for 1 hour, or overnight in the refrigerator.

Cathy, salt is a preservative and keeps butter fresher than unsalted butter for a longer period of time. The U.S. Department of Agriculture recommends using refrigeration when storing butter. If you decide to use unsalted butter in a European butter dish, change the water at least once a week and store in a cool place. If it smells different or slightly off, it may have spoiled, and then out it goes. -- Heloise

CREOLE ROAST
Dear Heloise: I read your column all the time and have enjoyed it for years. I always enjoyed your Creole Roast recipe, but after we moved to our condo, I couldn't find the recipe and would really appreciate it if you would reprint it for me and others who like a little zest in their meals. Since my son and his family are coming for Christmas, I want to make this dish for them. -- Linda M., Miami

In a covered grill, arrange preheated coals around a drip pan; test for medium heat above the pan. Insert a meat thermometer near the center of the roast and place on a grill rack over the drip pan, but not over the coals.
Lower hood and grill until thermometer registers 140 degrees Fahrenheit for rare (about 45 minutes), 160 degrees F for medium (about 55 minutes) and 170 degrees F for well done (about 1 hour).

Linda, here is my recipe for a Creole Roast:
2 to 2 1/2 pounds beef tenderloin
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 tablespoon snipped parsley, or 1/2 to 1 teaspoon dried parsley flakes

If you like this recipe, you can find it and similar dishes in my "Heloise's Main Dishes and More." To receive a copy, just go to www.Heloise.com, or send $3 along with a stamped, self addressed, long envelope to: Heloise/Main Dishes, P.O. Box 795001, San Antonio, TX 78279-5001.

There are lots of recipes that will surely please everyone in your family. Nothing like a new flavor to perk up everyone's appetite.
